about Laura

Laura Strickland is a freelance flutist who spent many years studying music before becoming a professional. She has an undergraduate degree in flute performance from Northwestern University in Chicago and a master's degree in flute performance from Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music. She later returned to Northwestern to get a master's degree in music theory. She did doctoral studies in flute performance and literature at the University of Maryland and University of Illinois.

In addition to playing with SoSco Duo, Laura is principal flutist with Arizona Pro Arte Ensemble where she is also the Executive Director. Laura teaches private flute lessons in Phoenix. Additionally, she works part-time as the Business Manager for Woodwinds by Germann, a high-end woodwind repair shop in Phoenix.

Before relocating to Phoenix, Laura performed on flute and piccolo in a wide range of ensembles throughout Chicago, Cincinnati, Seattle and Washington D.C.
